

About Us

BONE HOUSE video <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qsApbLRVbrQ>
Biography

"Like a post-punk take on east London's swirling psychedelic scene, Climbing Boys sound like The Horrors if they'd listened to Joy Division when deciding where to go after 'Strange House'. There's a lighter side to the ominous quartet though, with slivers of synth breaking through the gloomy bass and the feathery tone of Tom Salo's vocals subtly referencing the more chipper end of indie pop."

NME

"With a sound stemming from the jangling post-punk of acclaimed early-80s indie label Postcard, Climbing Boys' bass-driven songs allow for some intricate, reverberating guitar work that frequently breaks into catchy, melodic choruses on their self-released debut EP 'Take the Floor'."

NME

Description

Bookings: climbingboys@gmail.com